

This emotion... Why? Deus Ex: Human Revolution

by Vocaloidstars

Chapter 1

-Adam's Pov-

While i was well into my current objective of gavering information from the "enemy's" main computer, i get called by Francis.

"There are people coming to gaurd the main computer Jensen, you will need to either find a quick and easy way to deal with them or just srew up and blow your cover." he stated with a hint of amusment in his voice. -'No shit Sherlock. Great, now i will lose my focus because of his damn right annoying tone of voice his has!'-

I replied quietly with a simple, "I know." I waited for a few seconds for any reply and none came so i took aim around the corner of the right wall i leaned against and threw a gas grenade right underneath the suddenly alarmed "soldiers" scattered outside of the room. They all fell like flies with the sound of an egg hitting the floor. What a shame. I walked over the computer while being alert of the bodies on the ground, making sure they are knocked out or dead. I shockingly assessed the computer with my hacking augment with ease. The whole hideout was well secured men wise but when it came to keeping intell safe, they were very bad at it.

I downloaded all the information and started send it to Francis, "I am sending the files now."

"Well done Jensen, now let's see if you can get out of there alive." Francis muttered as though he was meant to say it to his self.

"Good to know you trust me so much." I sarcasticly muttered back to the source of my growing annoyance.

"Just do your job Jensen." That was, gladly the last thing he said untill i came back to the Sarif Industry building.

-Back at Sarif Industries (still Adam's Pov)-

I was walking to his office to report and to be informed of anything that has happened. All of a sudden, the sense of confussion came rushing back into my mind. As i opened the door and walked into the lab, i put my right hand on my forehead while closing my eyes and produced a pained expression.

"What is wrong now Jensen?" Francis asked with no sense of concern while still looking at his computer screen. He may of been faking his concern to make me even more annoyed but my thoughts blocked my way of thinking so i snapped and stated my current thought, "Why would you even care Frank?" With my stable voice and emotionless opened eyes, i retained some emotion in my words. He then looked up from his glass screen with a blank face.

"I do not want for you to die here and for me to tell the boss about how his prized fighter was killed due to a headache." He explained with bundles of emotion in his beep brown eyes.

My expression changed quickly into a angered one, i slammed my metal hands on to his desk and looked at him in the eyes when i shouted with anger and confussion, "Listen, i do not give a shit if i am his so called "prized fighter", what i don't get i why you confuse me so much! Why do you talk to me like i am shit while you look at me with emotions that would come from someone with attraction to the other?!!" I watched how his eyes widened with fear and shock while he sat back into his chair while i shouted at him. I then waited for his reply with my angered expression and hands still on his desk, i was shocked with my self with the fact of what i just said.

Frank then calmed down from the shock and looked down at his lap where his hands were in fists. "Jen- no, Adam... I just do not know how to commuincate with you anymore, i realized my emotions for you at least month ago and now i just do not know what to do. I do not understand this my self and am scared of the outcomes, that is why i snap, trying to keep this horid secret safe and unkown." My eyes softened while understanding his confession.

"It is not horid. It is natural to feel attraction to someone, male or female." I said while puting my hands back at my side and looking down at the shiney floor. "Have to admit that this whole thing has been confusing me for the past week or so. Now i understand."

"I am sor-"

"No Frank, don't be sorry about anything, this is not a wrong thing to be kept secret." I announced confidently while looking at Frank in the eyes.

What i was to say next shocked my self and Frank.

Chapter 2

-Adam's Pov-

Another day, another round of being told what to do by the all mighty head of cyber-security; Francis Wendell Pritchard. Standing by his desk, with the same expression on my face as all ways. I think to my self, why do i even put up with this guy's horrible sarcasm and annoying voice of his, it's not like i am paid to listen to this every day. I sighed heavily in my mind.

Zoning out after 5 minutes of being told about the assignment i have been given to complete, i picture him with his hair down and people laughing around him... i could not help but chuckle to my self for thinking of such a thing. Of course, this caught Francis's attention -'nice one Adam-'. "What are you laughing at Jensen?" he snapped while having a face mixed of emotions like a pick and mix bag of different coloured and sized sweets.

"Just something i was thinking about, it is none of your concern." I honestly replied with a unreadable expression. (Not a time to lose my "cool.")

"Well i do not care what you are thinking about in that head of yours Jensen, as long you understand your task and what to do so you can complete it." he snapped in defence of something i did not quite understand.

"Understood, i will start it now then." I announced while turning towards the door on my right.

"Fine then, be carefull out there and not get shot so easily this time Jensen." He said while looking at his computer screen.

"Hm," I muttered underneath my breath without looking back at him -'why even be concerned about my well fair anyway?'- i wondered to my self as i opened the door and walked out of the room.

This was not time to wonder and be side tracked, i must keep focused on the task ahead, finding information about the trouble maker's base and security defenses at the other side of town. Wait. Why would i even want to wonder about it in the first place? I became confused with my self as i walked down the stairs that lead the the big front door of the clean building. Time to focus.

Chapter 3

-Francis's Pov-

I was so shocked up, my mind all over the place, not knowing what to think or what action to take for this type of situation. After admitting the most important thing I had in my mind, I did not know whether Adam would reject me or accept it. It frightened me. Although by what he said about this being a natural emotion, he could still reject this whole situation and mock me for the rest of my unfortunate life.

What he said next... changed everything.

"You maybe gay but that changes nothing of how I look at you as a person, so don't worry about that. I... I think I may have the same amount of attraction towards you too now. The whole thing with Megan made me uncertain to even think loving someone is even possible anymore... but when I talk to you, it is like I have known you for years, like an old friend. You annoy me so much by being sarcastic about everything but I think deep inside, you might really care and now I know for sure now that you care about me more than anyone else has for a long time, even more than Megan. She was the one who left me in the first place." He spoke his mind while looking at me with a mix of heartbreak, depression and hope in his eyes.

Even his voice went low, trying to hide the sound of weakness, tears. I felt quite honoured to see such emotion from the Chief of security.

Inside my mind and heart, I felt happiness and hope, something I have not felt for quite a while. Being sucked into my work, there was no time for emotions to be thought of, although now... I am smiling softly with upset eyes staring into Adam's augmented eyes. I had not even thought of myself being gay until the day I realised that I like Adam and it annoyed me, that is why I am sarcastic and snap at him on a regular basis, thinking that I have no chance and that I have to move on some way. Now... now it has all changed.

"Adam... thank you, for making me feel this way... I understand about Megan, I was quite shocked and annoyed that she would leave someone like you. Someone who would die to keep their loved ones safe. Ha, I didn't even think about being gay until I realized my feelings for you... I am afraid of you not liking me in the same way due to the way I have treated you all the time. I have not loved someone this much apart from my family." I suddenly shook my head and widened my eyes in realization of what I just said... -'Wh..... wait... did I just... noo, now he will surely...!-

"Frank."

I looked up at the handsome man in front of my desk. He looked at me with eyes that could stare into your soul, even if they were augmented, I could still see the emotion.

"I... now that I think about it... I would like to try this out, I would like to be closer to you, someone who will not leave me, someone I can argue with and not worry about breaking up. Someone who would not steal my DNA to use and spread to everyone without me even knowing." He said with a serious tone in his voice.

I could not hold back anymore. I rose from my chair, went around my desk and hugged the tall man. I had so many emotions rushing through my mind, I could not say anything but I let tears flow out of my eyes. Tears of happiness and joy. Adam then put his arms around my small rib cage while resting his head against mine.

A moment to remember. I quietly hiccupped against his chest, then Adam did the unthinkable. Something I admittedly dreamt about but thought for certain that it will never happen.

-Third person Pov-

Adam moved his hands up to Frank's head and gently lifted it so he could see his eyes. The first sight of seeing Frank cry was almost heartbraking for Adam. He then knew what he was going to do.

Both males looked into each others eyes, searching for emotions, for their souls. So close to each other, nose to nose. The Chief then held Frank's chin and then kissed him delicately like a flower that would fall apart if touched harshly. The kiss seemed to last for hours for the two men, eyes closed while feeling each others lips, knowing it would not last for long due to the gas of life, oxygen. Both departed and looked into each other with loving and understanding eyes.

"I... I feel like I can say it now because it is real and certain... I... love... you Adam Jensen." Frank admitted softly.

"I am starting to feel the same... you fascinate me in ways no one else will ever come close to. I want this, I am...falling in love with you Frank Wendell Pritchard." Adam announced proudly against Frank's forehead where he then planted a kiss.

"I guess I should ask the question then. Even though we both know the answer to it." Adam stated while stepping back and holding Frank's hands.

"Frank. Will you go out with me?" Adam asked with a hint of red on his cheeks, this must of been the first time it felt real and important for him to ask such a question.

"Of course Adam." Francis replied with a maiden blush on his cheeks. It was one of the most beautiful things that Adam has ever seen up to now.

Francis then went to his chair, taking Adam with him by keeping hold of his hands. He sat down, let go of Adam's hands, while the metal hands still hovering in the air quite confused by the action. Francis then looked up into the augmented eyes of his love said with a smile, "Come here then." With his hands in the direction of Adam's head.

Adam quickly reacted and bent down towards him and wrapped his arms around around his neck. Francis kissed him on the cheek and then announced with a stable voice and a soft smile, "You better get back to work now, people must be looking for you." Adam then pulled away and realised how long he had spent in the lab/office.

"Oh right, i did not realise what time it is see you later Francis." he said with upset eyes and a soft smile in return. He then walked to the door and waved good bye, recieving a wave in return, he left the office with a rare smile on his strong features.

The day then continued normally for the two men but may of mentally scared the hell out of the people that were walking by the lab/office during the whole thing.

The 3rd chapter to continue my epic story :'D

Hopefully this is good lolz

I think i messed up some places?...

What should happen next ;D awkward moment with David? Some reason to go to Adam's house?.....

... I was actually thinking... there is no stories about mpreg for the couple... if i make a side story or something... should i make a mpreg one?...

Characters belong to Eidos and Square enix

Of course.

© 2011 - 2026 Vocaloidstars